Vocational Questions

This pack has two options for each question, consisting of 64 occupation questions!

PLUS this pack includes:

Interest Inventory (in color or b/w): Each student also gets the vocational interest inventory to fill out each day with their response. When completed this can be used for data to include in the IEP (great for transition plans!)

Job Posters: Each of the 64 jobs have a poster with a two sentence description of that job. Read this with your students in order to start a discussion about that job, or to give students an idea of what people in that career do before they choose their answer.

Question of the Day

How I use this product in my classroom:

Each day a new question is on the board. I store these in a binder and it is a student's job to replace the question each morning.

Students answer the question based on the choices during morning independent work.

Many of my students use devices, so they are expected to prepare their answer on their device.

Students can use the sample sentence under the question each day to help them write (and say) their answer.

For my students who do not use devices (or who are super fast), I also give them a weekly worksheet for our daily questions that they keep in their morning binder. There are several worksheets based on student levels. One involves drawing a picture answering the question, another writing the answer, writing the answer using a complete sentence, and answering the question plus adding details.

During our morning meeting, each student shares their answer and we move their picture under their answer choice, creating a graph of sorts.

It is a great way to learn about everyone and also helps teach students that there isn't always a "right" answer, and it's okay for your answer to be different than someone else's.

Types of Questions

So many students with special needs are concerned with answering questions correctly. These daily questions are designed for students to practice answering questions errorlessly.

Types of Questions:

82 What do you like? Given 2 picture choices. These are all opinion questions and students should learn that it is okay if their answer is different than their classmate's answers. We graph our answers so we can compare and see our similarities and differences.

20 personal info Yes/No questions. I included these at the beginning of the Yes/No questions because I wanted them to be opportunities for students to learn that it is okay to answer no sometimes! These questions will always have a clear answer and staff can work with students to make sure they are answering correctly.

78 Do you like ____? Yes/No questions. For many students, answering Yes/No questions can be difficult. Many students are conditioned to always say "yes" (or "no"). It is important for these opinion questions, that staff responds positively to all choices as not to make a student think they answered incorrectly.

Printing and Ways to Use

Print full size pages or print four to a sheet! (see example of job posters below but can be done with questions and put on a ring or stored easier, or save on paper!)

said they liked each day?!) Smaller cards can be kept on a ring.

Full size pages are great for full class use, as a poster, or visual at the front of the room.

*Open in Adobe or a PDF viewer to get the options to print four to a page (2 to a page is also an option if you want something just a little bit smaller).
