Reception Home Learning Timetable

Extended Learning: You could play with small world animals/ dolls house/ cars, playdough, construction/ lego, craft/ creative work, or baking. Thinking about the learning we have done that day. They could count the toys as they play with them. You could sing songs and come up with your own dances to them.

Quiet Time: You can complete the quiet time activity with your child and have a discussion about how they are feeling. What did they learn today? What did they like about today? What didn't they like so much about today? Use this as time to talk about feelings and reflect.

Love of Reading: Allowing your child to read and listen to read everyday is so important for their development. By reading and letting your child read daily it helps build their fluency and language skills as well as helping them to develop good listening skills. When doing Love For Reading your child does not have to read a level book it can be any book that they would like to read. This helps encourage the love for reading.

Handwriting: It is very important that we keep practicing handwriting while we are at home. We have added a morning session where we will give you a new letter to practice writing each day.
