

Dear Parents/Carers,

As we start the final half term of this academic year, it is quite amazing to look back and reflect on the challenges we have all faced, and overcome, since we started school in September. Along with the various restrictions imposed by the lockdowns, we have also all managed to continue to learn (and to teach) using a completely different medium ; I think we should all—children, parents and staff—be very proud of our resilience and adaptability throughout this time.

We are starting to think ahead to the end of the year and during this term you will be receiving your child's report and information about their new class and teacher for September. As ever, we will be re-arranging classes for September to even out the numbers of children within the different classes.

Regards, Ms Helm

Our 'Thought for Next Week'

Next week, in our assemblies, we will be thinking about:

"Testing Times: How can we use our resilience skills when tested?"

What does being resilient mean? Are there other words we use that mean the same thing?

Why is it important to be resilient?

When is this extra challenging and what are some of the things we can do to help us be more resilient?
